The CSLA/AAPC College of Fellows A Brief History

The first Fellows were elected in 1964, followed by almost annual additions averaging three Fellows per year. By 1979, over 30 members had been honored by election to Fellowship and it was time to formalize the structure and process. At CSLA/AAPC Congress '79 in Charlottetown, the 'College of Fellows' was established. Specific 'Rules for the Conduct of Operations' were adopted, outlining the structure and operation of the College and the guidelines for advancement of members to Fellowship.

The College's Executive Committee is responsible for the conduct of affairs, consisting of the Chair, Vice Chair, Secretary-Treasurer, and the President of the Landscape Architecture Canada Foundation (LACF), as well as the CSLA/AAPC President as ex-officio member. The Annual Meeting of the College is held each year in conjunction with the CSLA/AAPC Congress. An average of 20 Fellows have attended each AGM over the last several years.

Particular attention has been given to the manner in which new Fellows are admitted to the College and the role of the College in the larger activities of the profession and the Society. In accordance with the Rules for the Conduct of Operations, nominations to Fellowship may be presented to the College by the component organizations and/or the Board of Governors of the CSLA/AAPC. The final selection is made by a 'Jury of Fellows', consisting of representatives from Canada's five regions (B.C., Prairie, Ontario, Quebec and Atlantic), who are serving on the Jury for overlapping three-year terms. The Fellows-Elect are then ceremoniously inducted into the College during the banquet or other special event of the next CSLA/AAPC Congress.

Other activities of the College and its members involves assisting in the operation of the Accreditation Council, which administers the accreditation of Canadian schools/departments of landscape architecture since 1987, as well as the LACF. Since the 'Campaign of Fellows' commenced in 1988, over $330,000 has been donated by Fellows to the Foundation. These funds are used to promote the ideals of the profession of landscape architecture through research and scholarship grants.

In recent years a special effort has been made to establish a profile record on each Fellow, in order to have such information available for present and future generations of landscape architects. These records are on file for 75% of Fellows to date.

Since the inception of CSLA/AAPC, a total of 128 Fellows have been elected, 15 of whom are now deceased.

Criteria for Election to CSLA/AAPC Fellowship

Election to Fellow is the highest honour the CSLA/AAPC bestows on its members. Fellowship is the recognition of members who have made outstanding contributions to the profession over an extended period of time in one or more of the following categories:

Executed Works of Landscape Architecture

Administrative Professional Work in Public Agencies

Richard A. Strong

Categories: Executed Works - Professional University Instruction

Mr. Richard Strong obtained a BLA degree from the Ohio State University in 1957 and a MLA degree from Harvard University in 1959. He is licensed to practice landscape architecture in the states of Arizona, Montana and Ohio and is a member of CLARB. Dick was one of the founding members of OALA in 1969 and the association operated out of his offices during its early years. He served on the CSLA Board of Governors, as Chair of CSLA's Education Committee and as member of ASLA's Committee on Education.

The firm Richard Strong Associates Ltd. operated first in Toronto from 1961-78 with up to 35 staff members and in Calgary from 1978-83. In 1983, Dick became Director of Design and Development for the Expo '86 Corporation in Vancouver and was responsible for the design and development of the 135 acre World Exposition site. From 1987-91 he worked in Sydney, Australia as Design Consultant for governments, corporations, engineers and architects. Returning to Canada, he operated a Design Consultant firm in Lethbridge, Alberta from 1991-97. Mr. Strong's firm has been one of the most important practices in the country, with over 2000 projects to its credit. It has served as training ground for many of today's important landscape architects.

Dick Strong was the first Chairman of the Landscape Architecture Department at the University of Toronto from 1967-77. He led the Department through its formative years, emphasizing the widest breath of landscape architectural education. Instructors included aside from landscape architects: psychologists, artists, developers, urban foresters, marketing advisors and politicians. In the ensuing 35 years Dick has lectured and acted as visiting critic at numerous Canadian, American and Australian universities.

As a leading practitioner and distinguished educator for over forty years, we recognize Richard Strong as a giant of our profession and are privileged to bestow on him the long overdue honor of CSLA Fellowship.

David J. Reid

Categories: Executed Works - Professional Writing

Mr. David Reid's 28 years in landscape architecture started with graduation from the University of Guelph in 1975. His first job with Don Graham's group provided such effective training that he became one of the principals of the Landplan Collaborative at the tender age of 22.

David agreed to man Landplan's Vancouver office for three months in 1976. The three months grew to five years in Vancouver and a practice of ten professionals. In 1981 he convinced Landplan to let him start a branch office on Vancouver Island. There were no landscape architects north of Victoria at the time, and David moved to Nanaimo to fill that niche. The descendant firm, Lanarc Consultants, is now a diversified consultancy of ten, with Doug Backhouse as key partner. Lanarc has established a broad consulting practice for local governments and leading developers.

Dave's analytical abilities, multi-disciplinary approach and warm personality elevate him as a team leader and permit him to coordinate diverse professionals in the pursuit of creative solutions to complex design issues. He is probably best known for his publications for senior government clients. Especially here he has made direct and powerful contributions to the advancement of the profession of landscape architecture and to the public recognition of the profession through both his private practice accomplishments and his public practice communications, both in print and digital media.

David Reid is a professional with integrity and an ambassador for the profession. We are proud to honour him with induction into the CSLA College of Fellows.

Andre A. Schwabenbauer

Category: Direct Service to the Society

Mr. Andre Schwabenbauer graduated from the University of Manitoba with a BES degree in 1984 and a MLA degree in 1992. He became a member of the AALA and CSLA in 1991 and served on the AALA executive council from 1994 to 1998 as President-elect, President and Past-president. During his presidency, Andre chaired the AALA committee that negotiated with three other Provincial Associations to rewrite the Architect's Act as an Omnibus Act for four professions and participated in the first accreditation review of the NAIT Landscape Architectural Technologist program. As Past-president he served on the CSLA Board of Governors for two years, contributing significantly to the Society, including his role in co-developing the model internship program and as finance chair for the successful CSLA Congress '97 in Edmonton.

In 2001, Andre was elected CSLA President-elect and promoted the hosting of the 40th IFLA World Congress in Calgary. He also assisted in organizing the Montréal CSLA Congress in 2001, which reduced the financial losses resulting from the cancellation of the joint CSLA/ASLA Congress. During his presidency, Andre was co-chair of the 40th IFLA World Congress, negotiated a new contract for the publication of Landscapes/Paysages, represented the CSLA at President's Council meetings in the USA, and commenced negotiations with the ASLA for a new joint conference to be held in Canada.

Andre has been a principal of his own landscape architectural firm in Edmonton since 1989 and received a CSLA National Citation award for a completed project in 2000. We are pleased to recognize Andre's exemplary and dedicated services to the profession at the component and national levels and warmly welcome him into the College of Fellows.

Other requirements for election are a minimum of twelve (12) years uninterrupted membership in the Society, strictly enforced confidentiality of nomination and a confirmative 75% majority vote by the Jury of Fellows. Outstanding contributions are generally considered as contributions that are above and beyond those provided by a member of the profession. Particular attention is paid to those practitioners who have made nationally or internationally recognized contributions.

 Direct Service to the Society

Marie-Claude Robert completed her BLA degree from the Université de Montréal in 1973 and became a member of the AAPQ in 1982, having already served as the association's secretary for three years. From 1984-91 she was a partner in the firm Piuzze Robert et associés, followed by her own practice Marie-Claude Robert et associés until 1996.

Marie-Claude was also active as a lecturer and studio critic at the School of Landscape Architecture of the Université de Montréal from 1978-92, as well as collaborating with other landscape architects in establishing the SYNAPSE studio (1988-95), a place of intense creative activity with regular exhibitions.

Following her interest in the heritage of the industrial landscape, Marie-Claude accepted the presidency of the Québec Association for the Industrial Landscape from 1995 - 2002. This position enabled her to travel widely in Canada, Europe and the USA and she was able to apply this rich experience to the enhancement of Québec's industrial landscape heritage.

From 1996-02 she was Director of the Council for the Québec Landscape and since 1999 she has served as Executive Director of the AAPQ. In these positions she has played an important public relations role, developing for the landscape architecture community a vital network of contacts and resources that have enhanced the Québec public's knowledge of landscape and the profession.

Throughout her career, Marie-Claude Robert has nurtured her relationships, particularly with the professional worlds of landscape architecture as well as the industrial heritage milieu. Her accomplishments in each of these areas are now being recognized by her election as CSLA/AAPC Fellow.

De 1984 à 1991, elle est partenaire dans la firme Piuzze Robert et associés; puis poursuit sa pratique sous le nom de Marie-Claude Robert et associés jusqu'en 1996.

De 1978 à 1992, elle intervient comme chargée de cours et chargée d'enseignement à l'École d'architecture de paysage de l'Université de Montréal; Durant cette même période, Marie-Claude fonde avec des collègues architectes paysagistes l'Atelier SYNAPSE (1988-1995) qui aura été un lieu d'intense création où sont exposés des travaux de ses collaborateurs.

Pour pousser son intérêt à l'égard des paysages industriels, Marie-Claude accepte le poste de présidente de l'Association québécoise pour le patrimoine industriel qu'elle occupe de 1995 à 2002. Cette expérience lui a permis de voyager au Canada, en Europe et aux États-Unis et de bénéficier des expériences enrichissantes appliquées à la mise en valeur des paysages industriels.

En 1996, elle réoriente ses activités en devenant directrice du Conseil du paysage québécois (1997-2002) et directrice-générale de l'AAPQ depuis 1999. Ces nouvelles fonctions ont impliqué un important travail de promotion et de développement de réseau de contacts qui contribuent à faire mieux connaître l'architecture de paysage dans le milieu québécois.

Marie-Claude aura toujours été en lien avec le milieu professionnel, le milieu éducatif et avec le milieu associatif en patrimoine. Ses accomplissements dans chacun de ces milieux sont maintenant reconnus par son nomination comme membre agrée de l'AAPC/CSLA.

Richard Gaudreau

Category: Direct Service to the Society

Richard Gaudreau completed his undergraduate degree in landscape architecture in 1979, and his masters in environmental development in 1983, both at the Université de Montréal. His professional career has taken him through a wide range of positions including university professor, assistant director and director of different public and private planning agencies, consultant, international advisor, and most recently as economic development officer for one of Québec's regions.

His numerous contributions to the advancement of the profession have ranged from his presidency of the AAPQ in the mid-eighties to his term and restructuring work as president of the CSLA in 1989-90, to his recent term as member of the Board of the AAPQ. Over the past three years, Richard has undertaken surveys and studies that have greatly enriched our understanding of others' perceptions of our profession and professional activities, as well as of our own perceptions of where we're headed. He also has informed us, in various presentations at CSLA and AAPQ events, of opportunities for professional growth and development that landscape architects may pursue. He has further directed this dedication to the future of the profession through his involvement in the curriculum review process of the École d'architecture de paysage.

In naming Richard Gaudreau to the College of Fellows, we recognize countless contributions to the profession of consistent highest quality by one whose distinguished presence has elevated the level of debate, concern and vision in all of the roles and offices he has accepted, over twenty years, on our behalf.

Richard Gaudreau

Catégorie: Service direct à la profession

Richard Gaudreau est diplômé de l'Université de Montréal en architecture de paysage (1979) et en aménagement (1983). Sa carrière professionnelle l'a amené dans divers tâches y compris l'enseignement universitaire, la direction de plusieurs agences privées et gouvernementales de planification et de développement, consultant, conseiller international et plus récemment, agent de développement économique d'une des régions québécoises.

Ses contributions nombreuses au développement de la profession incluent la présidence de l'AAPQ au milieu des années 80, son travail de réstructuration de l'AAPC en tant que président en 1989-90 et son engagement actuel comme membre du CA de l'AAPQ. Depuis au moins trois ans, Richard entreprend des sondages et des études afin de connaître la perception des autres par rapport à notre profession et nos activités, ainsi que notre perception de l'avenir de la profession. Il nous a lancé le défi, lors de diverses présentations aux événements de l'AAPC et de l'AAPQ, que représentent les opportunités de croissance et de développement professionnel disponibles aux architectes paysagistes. En cohérence avec ces préoccupations, il contribue depuis quelques années à la refonte du programme professionnel à l'Université de Montréal.

Par la nomination de Richard Gaudreau au Collège des agrées, nous reconnaissons les contributions constantes de haute qualité de celui qui a réussi à rehausser le niveau des débats, des préoccupations et des perspectives de ses collaborateurs à travers les divers postes et engagements qu'il a acceptés au cours des derniers vingt ans.
